A STORY TO REMEMBER

The following is the inspirational monologue delivered by Gene Lochart at the concert and opening Rally for St. Michael's College Centennial Fund held in the Imperial Theatre.

Perhaps it is unnecessary to add that Mr. Lochart's companion—the St. Michael's College graduate—was his own very close friend, the late Dr. Frank O'Leary.

"When I was thinking over the St. Michael's campaign it seemed to me that last night I dozed off to sleep and all of a sudden I found myself walking down the path at St. Michael's College and as I came down I heard a voice call to me. I turned around and bless my soul it was an old friend of mine. One of the old grads." He said, "Hello Gene, where are you going?" I said, "I'm going down town here to do some things". And he said, "I know exactly what you're going to do and I'm going to help you." "How do you mean?" said I.

"We are going to make the first visit." "Well I don't know exactly what to say." He said, "You say exactly what I tell you to say. You see, I've been sent here to do this thing for you. Now here is our first point of call."

And we were approaching a store, sort of an antique store. There was an old gentleman inside. As soon as we went inside he turned, saw my friend and said, "Oh, my good friend, the Good Samaritan." The old gentleman then turned and called his wife and he said, "Rebecca, look who's here, the man who got us a place to live." And he explained to me, that he and his wife and children had no place to live some years ago, not even a room and he said to me, "What do you say in the New Testament? There is no room at the Inn. This good man here, this Good Samaritan, got us not only a room but a place to live in. Why have you come?" continued he.

My friend then apparently did something and I found these words coming out about the project of St. Michael's. A place for young men and young women to learn; to learn to put words together; to learn as St. Augustine said, "how to understand the meanings of what they read and how to explain what they want to say." And the old gentleman turned to my friend and said, "If this means that we can have more young men and young women in this country who support freedom of thought, freedom of religion, freedom from intolerance. If it gives to our Community, our Country, young men like you. . .give me the card." And as he signed the card my friend in his strange way with his quick, bright, merry eye, turned to me and said, "You see, it's as simple as that, you don't talk money, you just talk love, and the more deeply you love, the easier it becomes—and this is brotherly love."

We said good-bye and in a few moments we were at the top of one of the large buildings downtown. And he said, "Now here is a gentleman. He is almost eighty years of age. He is a financier. His name is Sir Robert McTavish. He has interests in mining camps, in timber, and in ships that ply along the St. Lawrence."

We were introduced to the man and he again looked at my companion and said, "Well, think of seeing you here again. How are you?" "Fine," replied my friend.

"What is the purpose of your visit?"

And then I felt again his thoughts coming out. I said to the gentleman, "St. Michael's College trains young men, the young men that you need for the furtherance of the great projects for which you are responsible. Here we have a river, shortly to be a seaway that will carry your ships from Europe and the old world to the head waters of the Lakes. And thus this river, like Canada, becomes a clearing house, becomes a central point for the diffusion for the exchange of ideas between the Old World and the thriving, driving country to the South of us representing the New World. And if these young men and young women can gain the knowledge that they need, the sense of language, the sense of the Liberal Arts; so that they can become the young Captains of industry—everybody in this country will profit who loves his country; and in addition to that they learn one of the most essential things today, love of God. So then for love of home, for love of children, for love of freedom, for love of country, we ask you."

The old gentleman turned to my friend, and said, "Many, many years ago, in the first World War, you did something for my boy, over there . . . and I told you at the time, I would take an opportunity to return your kindness—give me the card. My boy is still there, and still there are the crosses, row on row. Take it. . . thank you. . . and God Bless you, God Bless you, Doctor."

And in a second, we found ourselves again outside St. Michael's. I said, "Well, for Heaven's sake, Frank, why did you do all these things?" He said, "Now I have to get down to St. Michael's Hospital, just to have a look in there just once more to see how things are going with all these other young doctors. Then I have to get back—you see the fellows are calling me "Up There". And as he was going, hobbling away right through the railings of St. Michael's yard I called after him and said, "Frank, how is it there?"

And he said, "Oh. . . it is greater, it is more wonderful than you ever dreamed. It's true. The eye never saw, and the ear never heard, what's it like". And I said, "Good-bye Frank, Good-bye."

And from away off, I heard hundreds and hundreds of voices saying "Good work, Frank." And then a long. . . loud. . . silent. . . cheer seemed to fill the atmosphere—"St. Mike's, St. Mike's . . . Rah. . . Rah. . . Rah! . . ."

We are grateful to the Editor, 'The Mike', for the privilege of representing the above.

HOSPITAL AND SCHOOL OF NURSING ACTIVITIES

There are three hundred and thirteen students in the school and two hundred and thirty-one nurses on the graduate staff of the Hospital and School of Nursing.

Twelve postgraduate students are in operating room, obstetrics and special courses.

The students annual retreats were held in February. Very Reverend C. F. Sullivan, C.Ss.R., the rector of St. Patrick's was the retreat master.

The Senior and Intermediate Students had their uniform dances in the North Residence Auditorium, the week of February 15th.

At the request of District 5, R.N.A.O., the March meeting was held in St. Michael's Hospital Assembly Hall. Dr. Joseph A. Sullivan was the guest speaker, his topic, 'The Fenestration Operation' with an accompanying film which was 'shot' in St. Michael's Hospital operating room and has had world wide showing. This was followed by a visit to the study clinic for the Hard of Hearing Patient and a tour of the North Residence. Refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

The Interschool basketball tournament was held in North Residence Gymnasium, the week of March 9th.

The nineteen fifty-three graduates were guests at a St. Patrick's Day party—an Irish play by the preliminary students, refreshments and an impromptu concert.

A television set is now in the Main Residence, a gift to Sister Vincentia and from her, a gift to the students.

The following members of the Medical Staff were speakers on the Staff Education Programme.
